

Social Media Strategy

Transitioning WellFull Collective to Inbound Marketing

"Design that regulates before it converts."

Strategic Foundation

Replacing cold outreach with a high-authority authority ecosystem.

The Four Content Pillars

P₁: The Problem

83% of therapists use DIY templates. Identifying the cognitive friction in standard design.

P₂: The Science

PAD Values: Pleasure, Arousal, Dominance. How neuroaesthetics impact the nervous system.

P₃: Regulation

Showing, not telling. Walkthroughs and anonymized before/after of regulating design.

P₄: Trust

Introducing Frank & Lauren. Proving clinical authority meets technical excellence.

Market Intelligence

83%

of Therapist Sites are DIY

The Opportunity Gap

Most therapists use Squarespace, Wix, or Weebly templates. While functional, these sites often fail to establish the psychological safety required for deep clinical commitment. We target the migration from DIY to intentional architecture.

Campaign Governance Rules

-  No Urgency CTAs: Consistent with studio rules. Use "If this resonates, let's talk" instead of "Book Now."
-  Anonymization: No identifiable client sites. No "before" images that embarrass practitioners.
-  Brand Enforcement: Absolute adherence to Terracotta, Espresso, and Sage palette across all platforms.
-  Inbound Only: All traffic drives to a custom, mobile-optimized link-in-bio on wellfullcollective.com.

Week 1 Storyboards

From Problem Awareness to Clinical Trust.

Monday: The DIY Problem (P1)

Carousel: "The 83% Bottleneck"

Slide 1: "83% of therapist websites look exactly the same."

Slide 2: Explain how generic templates signal "professional neglect" to anxious visitors.

Slide 3: Identifying "Worst Offenders" (Lotus flowers, generic stock photos).

TikTok: Frank on the hidden cost of DIY contact forms.

Wednesday: Science & Regulation (P2)

"A vulnerable client shouldn't have to fight a cluttered layout just to find out if you can help them."

— WFC Core Philosophy

Format: High-contrast single image for IG Feed.

Story: Q&A Sticker on the "hardest part of site updates."

Friday: Solution & Trust (P3/P4)

Carousel: "The WellFull Approach"

Slide 1: Why Squarespace fails premium therapy practices.

Slide 2: Intro to the "One-Question Test."

Slide 3: Engineering a 3-click intake path.

TikTok: Frank analyzing 300+ websites and the 3-second rule.
